Session 9 - Sowing sunflowers seeds and lots and lots of watering

We noticed that our greenhouse has moved to the allotment to make it easier to take care of our seeds in there.

All of the plants in the allotment are growing well. The broad beans are getting very very tall.

The broad beans are also attracting lots of pollinators and we saw lots of bees going into the broad bean flowers when we were in the allotment.

The potatoes were growing taller so we put some more soil on them.

We sowed some sunflower seeds in paper pots. When the seeds have started to appear as seedlings we can plant the pots straight into the ground.

And just like last time everything needed a very good water because we still haven't had very much rain.
